

GERMAN-SPEAKING SETTLERS IN GEORGIA, 1733-1741
(BASED ON THE EARL OF EGMONT'S LIST) *

By GEORGE FENWICK JONES

John Percival, who became the Earl of Egmont in 1733, was a man of wealth, political influence, and charitable leanings who was greatly concerned about both the downtrodden in England and the oppressed Protestants of Europe. Seeing a chance to help both these groups through the proposed founding of the colony of Georgia, he threw all his considerable energy into this benevolent project and became the President of the Trustees for Establishing the Colony of Georgia in America. As Robert G. McPherson states, Egmont was "a careful record keeper and a copious writer";¹ and to him we owe much of our knowledge of early life in Georgia. Egmont struggled manfully to extract information from the officials in Georgia, who, in their general confusion and sickness, found little time or incentive to submit the requested reports. Despite such difficulties, Egmont kept, as best he could, a current record of all settlers who went to Georgia, to which he gave the title "A List of Persons Who Went from Europe to Georgia on Their own Account, or at the Trustees' Charge, who Joyned the Colony or were born in It, Distinguishing Such as had Grants there or were only Inmates."²

Egmont's list gives, as far as he was able to obtain it, information on the settler's age, occupation,³ date of embarkation,⁴ date of arrival, and whether he died, left, or moved away. The names appear in two parallel and roughly alphabetical lists, one listing those who came at their own expense and one listing those whose passage was paid for by the Trustees, either free as in the case of the Saltzburgers, or to be repaid by indentured service as in the case of the "Palatines."

The following list of German names is extracted from a computerized listing of all Egmont's names made for a previous purpose. Egmont used the words "German" and "Palatine" almost interchangeably and classified all inhabitants of Ebenezer as Saltzburgers even if they were actually Swiss like Zant and the Zublis, Silesian like George Sanftleben, or Bavarian like the Roths. On the other hand, many individuals listed as Palatines soon became "Saltzburgers" by moving to Ebenezer.

Sometimes Egmont gives variant or phonetic spellings, such as Rasch for Resch, Reuter for Reiter, and Roner for Rauner; but some names are distorted by misreading, as in the case of Leshoffer for Leihoffer, Schefter for Schefler, and Haismere for Kaesemeyer. Kimlin should be Künlin, whereas the in in Khredelin is merely the feminine ending, the correct name being Kreder. Despite these and many more discrepancies, Egmont's list is valuable, because many garbled family names, when reinforced by the pertinent Christian names, can be confirmed and corrected by other sources:⁵ for example, Michel Burgholder is clearly Michael Burckhalter of Vernonburg, who signed a letter thanking the Trustees for giving him the service of a Palatine woman and her children.⁶

The nine columns on the following list give: I, name; II, an arbitrary identity number; III, birth year (derived from age at date of arrival); IV, year, month, and day of arrival; V, nationality; VI, profession; VII and VIII, relationship of individual to persons with given identity number; and IX, departure through death (d) or moving away (m) in the few cases recorded by Egmont.

Other abbreviations are: for NATIONALITY, Georgia, German, Jew, Moravian (Herrnhuter), Palatine, Salzburger, Swiss; for RELATIONSHIPS, bastard, boy, brother, child, daughter, father, husband, ml (mother-in-law), minor, mother, nephew, niece, sister, son, sl (son-in-law), spinster, sw (single woman), ts (twin sister), uncle, ww (widow), wife; for PROFESSIONS, apprentice, blacksmith, brazier, brewer, bricklayer, butcher, carpenter, cook, drummer, dyer, farmer, fisherman, gardner, gentleman, glasier, hunter, husbandryman, joyner, laborer, locksmith, mason, miller, millwright, miner, minister, physician, ropemaker, saltpeterman, schoolmaster, scrivener, servant, shoemaker, smith, stocking weaver, surgeon, tailor, tanner, tinker, watchman, weaver, wood cutter.

² This manuscript, apparently in Egmont's own hand, is among the Egmont papers of the University of Georgia Libraries (serial no. 1422), which were so kind as to provide me with a photocopy. Egmont's list has been published in a somewhat different form as A List of the Early Settlers of Georgia, ed. E. Merton Coulter and Albert B. Saye (Athens, Ga.: U. of Ga. Press, 1949).

⁵ The correct names of the Salzbergers can be found in the Detailed Reports on the Georgia Salzbergers, ed. George F. Jones (Athens, Ga.: U. of Ga. Press, 1968 ff.), especially in Vol. VI (1981), pp. 328-328. Some of the Palatines, and their disposition, can be found ibid., pp. 329-334. The most authentic list of the Moravians is in Adelaide L. Fries, The Morvians in Georgia, 1735-1740 (Raleigh, N.C., 1905). Nearly all these German names appear passim in a myriad of spellings in The Colonial Records of the State of Georgia, ed. Allen D. Chandler (Atlanta, 1904-1916). Those volumes not previously published are now being edited by Kenneth Coleman and Milton Ready (Athens, Ga.: U. of Ga. Press, 1977 ff.).
